2. Summaries of Keynote Speech and Panel Discussions 1 and 2

Keynote speech:

Professor Helen Gilbert (Visiting Professor of Australian Studies in the Center for Pacific and American Studies, University of Tokyo

Helen Gilbert is Professor of Theatre at Royal Holloway, University of London, and author/co-author of several influential books, notably Performance and Cosmopolitics: Cross-Cultural Transactions in Australasia (2007) and Postcolonial Drama: Theory, Practice, Politics (1996). From 2009–14, she led a transnational European Research Council-funded project on indigenous performance across the Americas, the Pacific, Australia and South Africa. Her many edited books include Recasting Commodity and Spectacle in the Indigenous Americas (2014) and In the Balance: Indigeneity, Performance, Globalization (2017). She recently completed a fellowship at the Rachel Carson Centre for Environment and Society in Munich, supported by a Humboldt Prize, and is currently the visiting Chair of Australian Studies at the University of Tokyo for the 2017–18 academic year.

This presentation examines the workings of cultural diplomacy in the arts by canvassing recent Aboriginal Australian performances that have been staged in international venues in connection with festivals, exhibitions and other cross-cultural initiatives. It explores not only the ways in which indigenous embodied arts have been harnessed to celebrate Australia’s achievements (at home and abroad) while promoting particular institutions and events, but also how Aboriginal performance-makers strive to shape their own cultural and artistic encounters with diverse audiences. Case studies to be discussed in brief include Big hArt’s presentation of Namatjira in London in 2013, Marrugeku’s tours of Gudirr Gudirr to Europe (2013–14) and Toronto (2015) and the staging of Jack Charles V the Crown in Shizuoka (2017). Keeping in view the limitations of the ‘culture-as-resource’ model (Yúdice) in promoting cross-cultural dialogue, I consider the performances at issue as making compelling invitations to their audiences to see, sense and understand the challenges facing indigenous societies today and to acknowledge their root causes in European colonialism. Such invitations can be seen as part of an emergent trans-indigenous public sphere where (soft) diplomacy is being reimagined as a grass-roots activity. At the broader level, my research seeks to illuminate ways in which performative acts and aesthetics sustain indigenous cultures within, against and beyond the forces of the neo-liberal market place.

AJF Sponsored Projects: The Past and Present of Australian Studies from Japanese Perspectives

The project consists of two sessions. The first session “Economic Geography of Contemporary Australia” will analyse the recent trends in Australian demography and logistics. With a group of Japanese geographers, we will invite Professor Emeritus Kevin O’Connor from the University of Melbourne as a guest speaker. The second session “Reconsidering 1988: Indigenous Affairs since the Bicentenary” will commemorate the 30th anniversary of Australian bicentenary. To reflect on the history and historiography of indigenous and non-indigenous relationship, we will organise a panel of six Japanese leading scholars from the fields of history, anthropology and art (no simultaneous interpretation provided).
3. Campus Map

Tsukuba Express from Akihabara station is the fastest way to get Tsukuba station. It takes about 20 minutes from Tsukuba centre (Tsukuba station) to the venue. Another convenient way to get the venue is Joban Highway Express Bus from Tokyo Station at bus bay 2, Yaesu South Entrance (八重洲南口) (about 75 minutes). The venue is just in front of the final stop, Centre of Tsukuba University (Tsukuba daigaku chuo 筑波大学中央).
